

Two year old Michaela has developmental issues. She attends a Na'amat multipurpose daycare centre whose hours are 7am to 7 pm. She receives 3 meals at the centre and often gets bathed and put into her pajamas before her single mother can pick her up after work. During the day, Michaela learns and plays with the other children while her caretakers practice the exercises her speech and physiotherapists have put in place. After a year at the daycare centre, Michaela is interacting with other children, moving around more comfortably and babbling away.